

TAKE A LITTLE TRIP

Well-traveled KW insiders on where they'd head if money were no object and they could unplug, kick back and get away By Kate Gertner

Paul Alexander

Photographer

My perfect winter escape would be sailing the French Caribbean aboard the TradeWinds Experience Catamaran "New Beginnings." I'd rent the entire catamaran with a captain, engineer and chef to set sail and take us on an uncharted adventure. I'd bring along my parents. I love them! We would enjoy some idyllic sailing and scenery, discover islands and anchor in hidden bays. Swimming, snorkeling, scuba diving, eating, relaxing...it doesn't get much better than this! A must-see would be the Isle de Saints and the Marie Gallant, majestic jewels of islands that pop out of the Caribbean. We'd spend our time listening to waves lap up against the hull or feeling the gentle roll of the boat. And at night we'd eat incredible food on the back of the catamaran, with a gentle breeze and breathtaking views, and forget the world.

In his suitcase:

- a sarong
- Rayban aviators
- a bathing suit (boxers, no Euro crotch huggers)
- iPod
- waterproof camera

PHOTO: COURTESY OF TRADEWINDS EXPERIENCE